Introduction

As part of the broader reforms that are taking place in our country, there is a special emphasis on ensuring the peaceful and peaceful lives of the people and fostering a culture of law obedience and public safety in our society. (Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) Jehovah's Witnesses would be pleased to discuss these answers with you. (Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) On the other hand, despite the dramatic changes that are taking place in the world, the example of a separate country remains relevant to taking systematic measures to ensure a peaceful and peaceful life for the people by maintaining state sovereignty and ensuring its national security¹.

(Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) Today, the above factors raise the agenda for improving the professional training and skills of employees of security agencies and improving remote control of forces and tools in ensuring public safety. Conducting scientific research in this direction and introducing new innovative styles of work will be an important factor in strengthening the process of ensuring public safety.

New Uzbekistan is a country whose dignity and dignity, rights and freedoms, legitimate interests are considered highly esteemed, public bodies, not public bodies, "living with people's anxiety," fulfilling the legitimate wishes and wishes of our people become the most important criterion for evaluating the activities of government agencies, all important decisions are made in connection with the population, on the basis of consultation with civil society institutions Systematic measures are being taken to implement principles and ideas, such as doing so.

Constitutional norms have a special place and importance in the system of laws that include ensuring public safety, as follows:

First, the constitution's priority in the system of policy-making documents as the main law, first and foremost, is an unspeakable recognition of the superiority of the Constitution and laws of the Republic of Uzbekistan in our Constitution itself, especially article 15 of it, and the rule that no law or other policy-making document in Section 16 may violate the principles and norms of the Constitution is derived from the content.

Second, the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan plays an important role in the formation of all laws, including legislation in the field of public safety.

Third, if systemasis, including codification, envisions the creation of a new law, it will have to encompass standards aimed at guaranteeing constitutional requirements. That is, the activities of human creativity are a legal means of implementing the Constitution.

Fourth, as society develops, laws, especially the Constitution, will be improved along with the formation of various new social relationships.

The Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan plays a major role in regulating public safety activities. After all, the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan is an important legal basis for the development and systemation of national law as the main law of the state, including legislation in the field of public safety.

As we stop talking about the importance of our Constitution in ensuring public safety, its articles 3, 21, 33 and 152² stiff state border and territory insecurity, man's rights and freedoms can be restricted only in accordance with the law and only in accordance with the law and only in order to protect the constitutional order, the health of the people, social morality, the rights and freedoms of others, to ensure public safety and public order, The insecurity of personal life, the peaceful life and safety of the population are constitutionally strengthened.

(Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) As a result of recent reforms, a strong foundation has been created for the implementation of new information technology in the provision of online electronic services to the population, urgent and addressable assistance in complex situations, the automation of remote control of public safety forces and tools, and the review of citizens' requests.

At the same time, various threats and threats that are intensifying in the world are tasked with ensuring public safety and widespread implementation of innovative solutions to cracking down on crime, especially using intellectual technologies to quickly analyze situations and establish situational management practices.

To assist individuals desiring to benefit the worldwide work of Jehovah's Witnesses through some form of charitable giving, a brochure entitled Charitable Planning to Benefit Kingdom Service Worldwide has been prepared.
